Crisis in Ghana--Friends of ECM urged to pray

Dear Friends of ECM,

Just this afternoon we have received word from Ghana that the slave liberation at Aflao which was scheduled for November 18 has stirred up a hornet's nest.

The occult opposition group had previously set up a "Trokosi Council", declaring themselves the only legitimate spokespersons for the practice of trokosi. This council is formed only of those who oppose liberation of the slaves. They say all others are illegitimate imposters, that the trokosi are treated like queens, etc. In reality they are like a glove and the occult Afrikania Mission is the hand inside the glove.

Now this council has taken the chief who was working with ECM to liberate the women to court for trying to liberate the slaves in the Aflao shrine. It's a joke in a way that the shrines are breaking the law by continuing with the practice which has been illegal since 1998, and they are taking to court those who try to get them to do what the law demands.

The problem developed after a Ghanaian newspaper showed up at the pre-liberation counseling sessions we were doing at Aflao, asking lots of questions about what the slaves experienced in the shrines. They published two articles, and that got the attention of the opposition group.

Please pray:

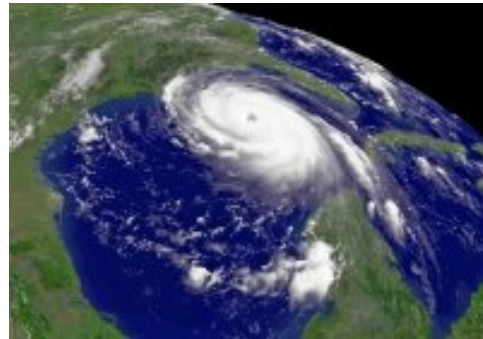

- | For God's wisdom for all leaders concerned that we may know what to do.
- | For the chief to remain steadfast in his conviction against trokosi.
- | For the lies of the council to be exposed for what they are.
- | For justice to prevail.
- | For the funds that will be needed. We were already a little short to complete the liberation, and now this is sure to add expense.
- | For the innocent slave women and children who wait in the balance.
- | For peace of heart and mind for all affected.

Dear friends, thank you for praying! For the slave children awaiting liberation, Lorella 9/22/2005

Hello, I have a friend that is in need of your prayers. She has a rare disease called PPH. The doctors do not know what causes this nor do they have a cure. She has just had a catheter put into her heart which is connected to a pump to help her heart. We need to pray for healing for her heart !

Please keep Barb in your prayers. We know God can overcome this and he will!!!!!!
God Bless Cathy

I went to a clinic to report a health problem I was having and ended up in an ambulance being transferred to St. Alexius in Hoffman Estates. I was in the hospital for chest pains, unexplained sweating and a constant head pain Monday night. They stuck me with a lot of needles to draw blood for testing. The nitro patch gave me a major headache...It turns out the chest pain was a pulled chest muscle I been having for 3 weeks (just got worse); the various heart checks revealed a problem with my Heart's Aorta sinus area being swollen on one side. I passed the heart stress test and all other test prior to being released Tuesday afternoon. I was told not to lift more than 10 lbs for a week and take Naproxen and a Diuretic. I will have to have the heart monitored annually to make sure this swollen area is not increasing. If it continues to grow it can eventually pop causing an aneurism in the heart which can become messy. Hopefully a solution will take place prior to that ever happening. I have sent this to the Lord for his wonderful healing hands.

Please pray for my full recovery and for us to have the funds to pay for our portion of the medical costs after insurance coverage...

A prayer for this 9 month old baby with cancer:

Please take a moment to relax your mind and humble your heart to focus on Christ and pray for a miracle for 9 month old Jarred Wiggel who has recently been diagnosed with Ritinablastoma (cancer). He has a tumor in the left eye which has spread into the right and he may lose sight in both eyes if the cancer does not react to the chemo treatment. Thank you God bless Dear Lord I thank your for this day. I thank you for me being able to see and to hear this morning. I'm blessed because You are a forgiving and understanding God. I believe that God changes people and God changes situations. I Pray for all my sisters and brothers - especially Jarred Wiggel whose life has just begun - help him to fight this disease that is challenging his health as well as his sight, hear our prayers and lift this burden from this child. Bless his family, and give them the strength they need to get through this time I pray that every eye that reads this knows there is no problem, circumstance, or situation greater than God. Every battle is in Your hands for You to fight. I Pray that these words be received into the hearts of every eye that sees them and every mouth that speaks them willingly - Lord hear our prayer. Prayer request: I've been a bit stressed out: the business, my parents, the kids. All in all, everything is well. Papi and Mami are doing well, thank God! The last we spoke he was undergoing the last cycle of his chemo. He got a CAT scan and the tumor was smaller. The doctor let him go for a week to P.R. and now he has to undergo 3 months more of chemo - the last round. My mom was diagnosed with Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease. This is the general category where chronic asthma and emphysema fall into. She's had her BAD days - alot has to do with allergies. She has her good days but on the bad ones she could barely breathe. Each week is touch and go for both of them. All 4 sisters coordinate their appointments. I must say we've pulled through as a family. LOVE YOU! Syl 5/13/2005

Prayer Request: God Bless, my prayer request is for Kim Townsend. Kimberly is being bound by past hurts in her life. Although she wont tell me specifically what happened to her, its obvious that she has a severe difficulty with trusting others and overcoming the pain that has been inflicted on her in her past. I care for Kim and she cares for me, but because of this block, she cant receive the love that I have for her. Its like she expects me to hurt her and tries to bring that about by pushing me away. I ask that you would lift her up before the Lord so that he would deliver her from the pains of her past, the voice of the enemy in her life and the confusion he is trying to wreak on her. That God would destroy the fear that is keeping her bound, not just from me, but others as well. I myself have been hurt badly in the past and it took a lot to get me to trust God and trust her, I pray that God would work in her, like he worked in me. I love her so much and it hurts ! me so badly to see this happening between us, and I just ask that you would please pray that God will show her I genuinely love her and that his will be done in this situation. Thank you and God Bless, Brandon. 5/1/2005

John's Dad (Peter) took a turn for the worse last week. He'd been doing relatively ok over the past weeks and months since we moved here, having good weeks and some bad weeks. However this past bad week he went quickly downhill after Thanksgiving. Upon getting him into the hospital last Tuesday they found that his kidneys are failing. With his condition, and other complications of the terminal cancer the doctors said there was no good in doing dialysis or any procedures to help the kidneys - things are too far gone. At this point he's in no pain and he should only last a matter of days - we expect sometime this week. Breathing is hard and he's sleeping more and more. We're told he'll eventually go to sleep and then will pass on some time after that. Prayer warriors please Pray for John, his dad and family. John is a

Dear Brother & Sister in Christ,

I will be starting a new job on Monday, and it is also my birthday. I am nervous. I don't know why it is the same kind of job I have done at a previous call center. I got laid off two weeks ago and have gone thru alot of different websites posting resumes, gone on at least a dozen interviews and nothing good. I was going to take a job for less pay and more work.

Then my phone rings and this man I worked with 4 yrs ago offered me a job with higher pay and doing all the work I was going to do on this other job so I took it. Now I am scared I made the wrong move, I don't understand why I am feeling this way. Please pray that I did make the right decision and that I will get paid my hourly plus my good commisions as well.

Thanks, Have a wonderful Jesus Day. Libbie 10/3/2004
